Washington, D. C.

Dear Allen:

I write in the hope that you will be able to join us at our forthcoming conference on U. S. Economic Relations with Western Europe. This meeting will be held at the Hotel Statler here in Washington on Tuesday and Wednesday, December 13th and 14th.

It would be a pleasure to have you with us for this timely discussion of recent developments and their effect on American business interests in Western Europe.

I hope you will be able to attend this meeting, and look forward to hearing from you.

Sincerely yours,

Philip W. Thayer
Dean

- Each Conference Provides:
1. Up-to-the-minute reviews of developments in critical geographic areas —presented off-the-record by outstanding business, government officials, and labor leaders.
 2. An opportunity for the executive to present his viewpoint on international issues to those officials who make our foreign policy.
 3. An opportunity to discuss international trade and investment problems with other business executives.
 4. Ample time for an informal interchange of ideas. Each talk is followed by discussion from the floor. Coffee breaks and a cocktail hour provide additional opportunities.

Each Conference is:

1. Short enough to appeal to the busy executive. No Conference lasts more than two days.
2. Limited in Attendance, in order to permit active participation.
3. Off-the-Record, so that participants will feel free to discuss mutual problems with candor.

Those who are invited:

The School welcomes attendance at these Conferences by any executive with international interests. These fall into one of two categories:

1. Representatives of Associated Companies, which support the work of the School of Advanced International Studies, may attend free of charge and will receive priority on enrollment at those conferences where the demand exceeds attendance limitations.
2. Representatives of companies which are not so associated are also welcome. For such individuals there is a charge of $25 per person per day.

CONFERENCES FOR CORPORATION EXECUTIVES

1906 Florida Avenue, N.W., Washington 9, D. C. • AD 4-2940

are a series of meetings designed specifically to meet the requirements of the executive with international interests—to encourage mutual understanding between business executives, labor leaders, and government officials on matters affecting American business operations abroad. Organized in 1946 at Industry's suggestion, they have been planned each year to keep abreast of the executive development needs of the foreign trade and investment community.
